President Sends Message to Congress Urging Action.

PALMA APPEALS FOR RELIEF

AGING TO BEET INTERESTS. TASHINGTON, June 13 .- The president today sent the following message to concess: "To the Senate and the House: deem it important before the adjourn-to call attention to the following expressions in the message which, in the discharge of the duty imposed upon me by the constitution, I sent to congress the first Tuesday of December last: Elsewhere I have discussed the question of reciprocity. In the case Cuba, however, there were weighty reasons of morality and of national in-terest why the policy should be held to have a peculiar application, and I most earnestly ask your attention to the wisdom, indeed, to the vital need, of providing for a substantial reduc-tion in the tariff duties on Cuban imports into the United States. Cuba has desired that she should stand, in international, matters in closer and more friendly relations with us than with any other power; and we are bound by every consideration of honor and exliency to pass commercial measures in the interest of her well being.

McKinley Favored Reciprocity.

Yesterday, June 12, I received by cable from the American minister in Cuba, a most earnest appeal from President Palma for "legislative relief before it is too late and his country financially ruined."

It is stated that the president's positive declaration in his message today as to the duty of congress probably will end his active efforts to bring about reciprocity.

Cuba Should Be an Exception.

The granting of reciprocity with Cuba is a proposition which stands entirely alone. The reasons for it far outweigh those for granting reciprocity with any other nation and are en-tirely consistent with preserving intact the protective system under which this country has thriven so marvel-The present tariff law was designed to promote the adoption of such a reciprocity treaty and expressly pro-Objection has been made to the Rico and Hawaii have been included within our tariff lines, to their great benefit as well as ours, and without any of the feared detriment to our own industries. The Philippines, which stand in a different relation, have been granted substantial tariff concessions

Should Make Concessions.

Cuba is an independent repubwhich has assumed certain special obligations as regards her international position in compliance with our request. I ask for her certain special economic concessions in return; these economic concessions to benefit brighter pages in American history than the page which tells of our dealings with Cuba during the past four years. On her behalf we waged a war, of which the mainspring was generou indignation against oppression, and we have kept faith absolutely.

It is earnestly to be hoped that we will complete in the same spirit the record so wel lbegun, and show in our dealings with Cuba that steady continuity of policy which it is essential our nation to establish in foreign affairs if we desire to play well our part'as a world power.

We are a wealthy and powerful nation; Cuba is a young republic, still weak, who owes to us her birth, whose whole future, whose very life, must depend on our attitude toward her. I ask that we help her as she struggles upward along the painful and difficult I ask this aid for her because she is weak, because she needs it, be cause we have already aided her.

Our soldiers fought to give her freedom, and for three years our representatives, civil and military, have tolled unceasingly, facing disease of a peculiarly sinister and fatal type with patient and uncomplaining fortitude, to teach her how to se aright her new freedom. Never in history has any alien country been thus administered with such high in tegrity of purpose, such wise judgment, and such a single-handed devotion to that the Cubans be given all possible chance to use to the best advantage the freedom of which Americans have such right to be proud, and for which so many American lives have been sac rificed. It has been pointed out to the pres-

Major Waller, "but Samar—well, hell tuating his views in a special message, is a winter resort compared to Samar." It is known, however, that the president did not hesitate to arrive at a deep cold that he contracted during conclusion that he would not let his the home voyage on the transport, but political prospects interfere with what he was obviously sincere. His dark giving practical effect to President he regarded as his plain duty. It is McKinley's words when, in his message of Dec. 5, 1898, and Dec. 5, 1899, he wrote:

"It is important that our relations with this people of Cuba shall be of the wishes of his warmest supporters, but the felt it would not be that it was a source of great regret to him to take a position hostile to the wishes of his warmest supporters, but the felt it would not be the fel with this people of Cuba shall be of the most friendly character and our commercial relations close and reciprocal. * * *

Governor Geer has doubled the reward for the capture of the fugitives dead or alive, haking it now $3,000, which may lead sone one to take up the chase again. Both sheriffs will hold themselves in readiness to proceed in the direction of any authentic report of the whereabouts of the two outlaws, but until such information comes it is believed that it will be just as well to wait at home and allow the fagged-out men and dogs to take the rest which has been denied them for the past five days. Where the convicts are now no one knows. They may be walking calmly along some mountain road in Clackamas county headed for the mountains, or they may be working their way toward Portland. They have five pounds of bacon, sufficient to enable them to travel several days without disclosing their whereabouts by applying for food to any more ranches, and they are undoubtedly rested by this time from the strain of the first flight ahead of the hounds.

The officers believe it is more than the hounds.

The officers believe it is more than likely that they will come eventually to Portland. At all events, they are further than ever away from capture, and the only hope the sheriffs have of finding them is in reports that come in from along their route when they become hungry and seek food at a farm house. Through the densely matted vine, maple, currant and salmon berry bushes that fill every bottom and swale and in the ir forests a little further up the range they can move for days without attracting notice.

Sheriff Durbin and his forces hit the trail of the convicts early this morning in the bottom below raves. The dogs proceeded rapidly for a time, when they lost the scent, which was cold. Once more E. M. Carson, who has charge of them, pushed through the brush and urged the hounds on, and once more they found the trail, but the convicts had evidently back-tracked, and presently the dogs, completely baffled, gave it up, and that was the last trace of the convicts.
